ART ON PHOTO PAPER

Print true-to-life photos with rich, vivid colors and an impressive finish. Photos dry instantly so you can pass them around – right from the printer – without smudging. Photo paper is typically divided into glossy, semi-matte, semi-gloss, satin or silk, and matte finishes. Paper thickness varies widely. Glossy photo paper, generally the most popular, has a shiny finish that gives photos a vivid look. It is generally smooth to the touch and has some glare. Matte photo paper is less shiny, and produces superior text results. Matte and glossy prints typically feel different to the touch, but when displayed under glass they often look similar.
